LITERATURE OF THE DAY

A MISCHIAFOUS MIDDE'S JOKE. Dr. Foord Clark, a young sea going susthis port a short time since as the surgeon of the British ship John o' Gaunt. The ship was from Calcutta. The voyage was furnish to the active intellect of the young

MILAN AND SALISBURY CATHEDRALS Contrast Milan with Salisbury Cathedral It may seem shockingly irreverent to say so, but I have always fancied Milan, with all its wondrous spires and pinnacles and twirligigs, was after all but a glorified and idealized wedding cake the gorgeous dream of an artistic confectioner, with a taste for building up that curious fret-work in white sugar and caramel which decorates the front window of the pastry-cook's shop. It is the apotheosis of confectionery, no doubt but I am compelled to admit, confectionery none the less. As you gaze up at it, down upon it from its own top, you fail get any one intelligent idea of its drift. However you take it, it remains a wilder ness of stone-work, reducing your mind a maze and a haze, through which innumerable points and peaks loom up indistinguishably, and fade into others yet beyond them. On the other hand, go into the nest contained cathedral in all Europe. CONCERNING CATS.

Is it not stronge that the favorite, might say the domestic friends and companions of the human race are the repre sentatives of the two classes of carnivoro animals, a feline and a canine. At present, leaving the dog for future consideration, we are disposed to treat of the cat, which represents the feline, just as the dog represents the canine species. In one respect the cat is regarded as unworthy of consideration-that is, while there is rather a heavy tax upon dogs in the British Islands, the cut has never been subjected to anything like a fiscal notice.
